1st Floor Lindeman Pavilion, 1201 Terry Ave, Seattle, WA 98101

The 40th Annual Patricia Maguire Distinguished Nurse Lectureship is an annual conference designed to advance the professional practice of nurses and other healthcare providers. The conference provides a unique opportunity to network and discuss topics which expand knowledge and promote desired patient care outcomes.

This year, our Keynote speaker is Tim Cunningham, RN, DrPH, FAAN.

Tim Cunningham graduated from the Clinical Nurse Leader program at the University of Virginia in 2009 and then worked as an emergency/trauma nurse at the UVA Health System, Children’s National Medical Center and New York Presbyterian, Cornell. He has worked internationally as a clinician in post-earthquake Haiti; Sierra Leone, during the Ebola outbreak with the organization, Partners in Health; and most recently with Rohingya refugees in Bangladesh. His work as a Clowns Without Borders clown and nurse keep bringing him back to the central question: What keeps people resilient?

This question helped him complete his Doctorate of Public Health at the Mailman School of Public Health, Columbia University. His dissertation focused on psychosocial support of expatriate Ebola aid workers in West Africa, with an emphasis on Narrative Medicine. In 2016, he joined the faculty at UVA with a joint appointment in the School of Nursing and Department of Drama. He also served as the Director of the Compassionate Care Initiative. Currently, Tim is the Vice President of Practice and Innovation at Emory Healthcare where he also holds an appointment as Adjunct Assistant Professor at the Nell Hodgson School of Nursing at Emory University.

Course Description: This workshop is an interactive educational program where Tim will look back at Virginia Mason’s 100 years of nursing history while discussing resiliency in healthcare. The day will include storytelling, laughter, and inspiration in interactive sessions to examine how resiliency encourages us to keep moving forward. Finally, Tim will discuss what’s next in the future of nursing and how we can build on our strengths.
